WHICH CRUISE LINE SHOULD YOU BOOK?

The majority of people who try a cruise for the first time will love it, and many end up cruising again and again. So, which cruise line should you book?

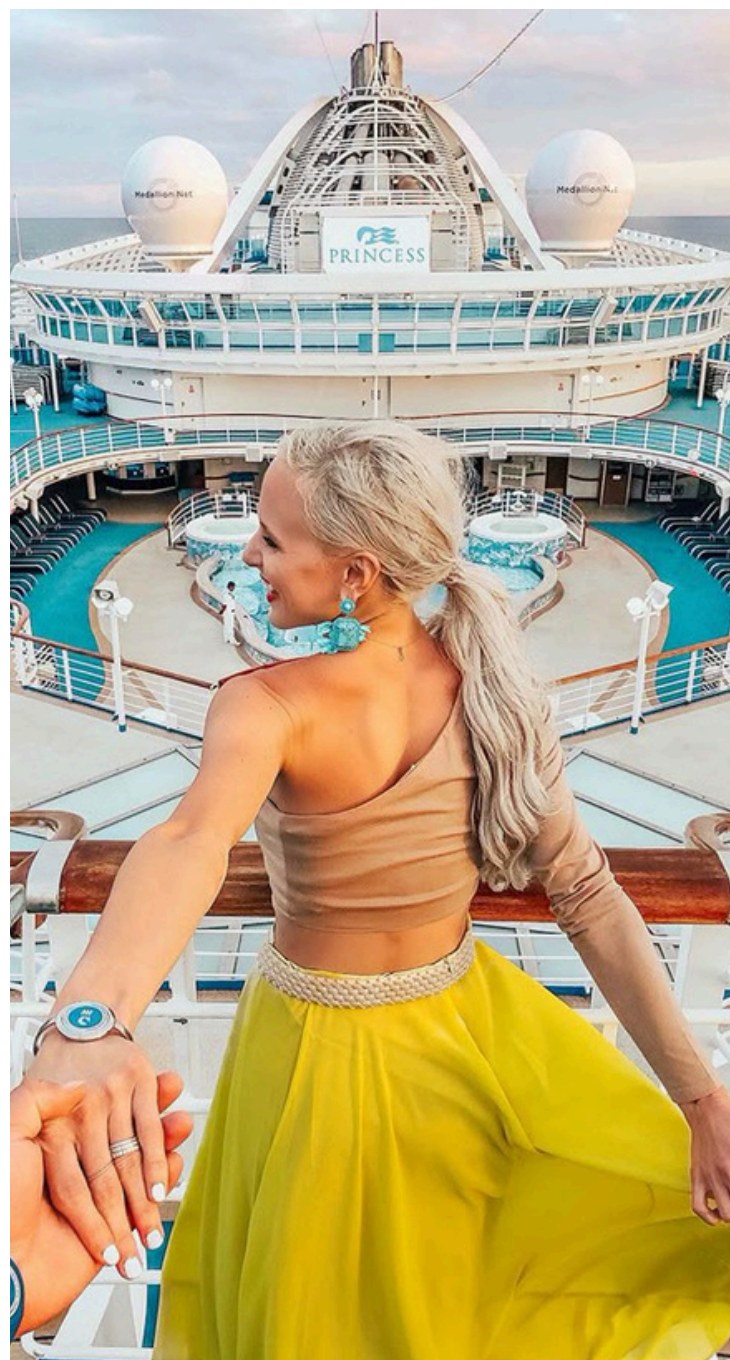

It's not an easy decision with so many to choose from. There are dozens of cruise lines out there, and no two are alike. Some just operate big ships. Some operate small ships. Some just sail in North America. Others sail all over the world. Some offer ships designed for family fun, whereas others won't allow children onboard.

When you think of a "cruise ship," you may think of the giant floating mega-resorts operated by the likes of Royal Caribbean and Norwegian Cruise Line you see in television advertisements - the kind of ships that carry thousands of passengers and have all sorts of gee-whiz amusements on their top decks. But the world of cruising also includes companies that operate far smaller, more intimate vessels that carry just a few dozen to a few hundred people. These ships have a completely different vibe. They're more like small boutique hotels floating from place to place.

In addition, you'll find cruise lines all over the map when it comes to price points. Just like with land-based resorts and hotels, there are cruise lines for people on the tightest of budgets and cruise lines that cater to people where money is no object.

There really is something for everyone, and over the next few pages we aim to share a little bit about some of the cruise lines we offer.

To ensure you get the correct one for your needs speak to the agent who sent you this ebook.

How to choose the right cruise: A SIMPLE GUIDE WITH REAL-LIFE EXAMPLES

Choosing the perfect cruise can feel overwhelming - after all, there are so many options.

From luxury liners to adventure - filled expeditions, short getaways to world cruises, there's something for everyone. The key to picking the right one? Knowing what you want out of the experience.

Here's a step-by-step guide to help you decide - with real-life examples to bring it all to life.

1. DECIDE WHAT KIND OF EXPERIENCE YOU WANT

Ask yourself:

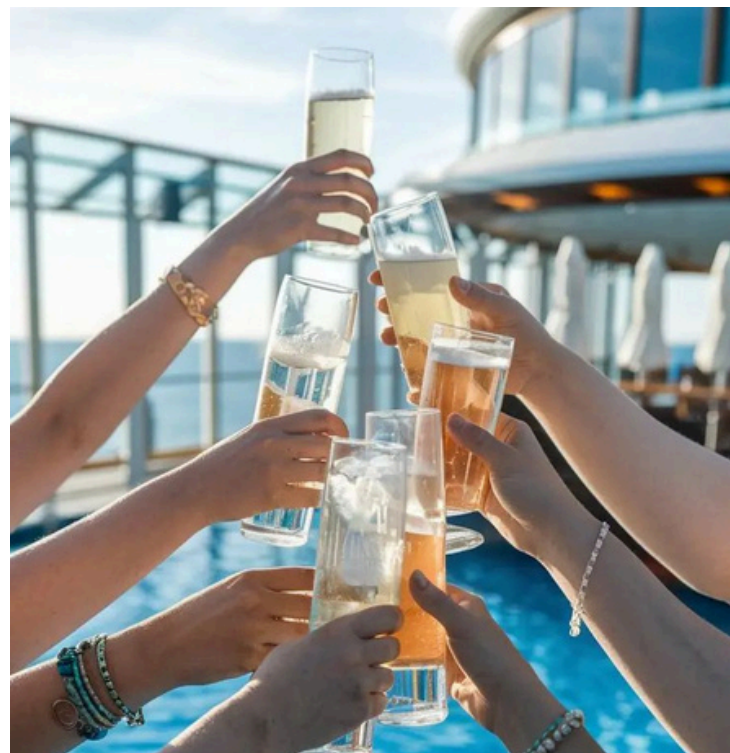

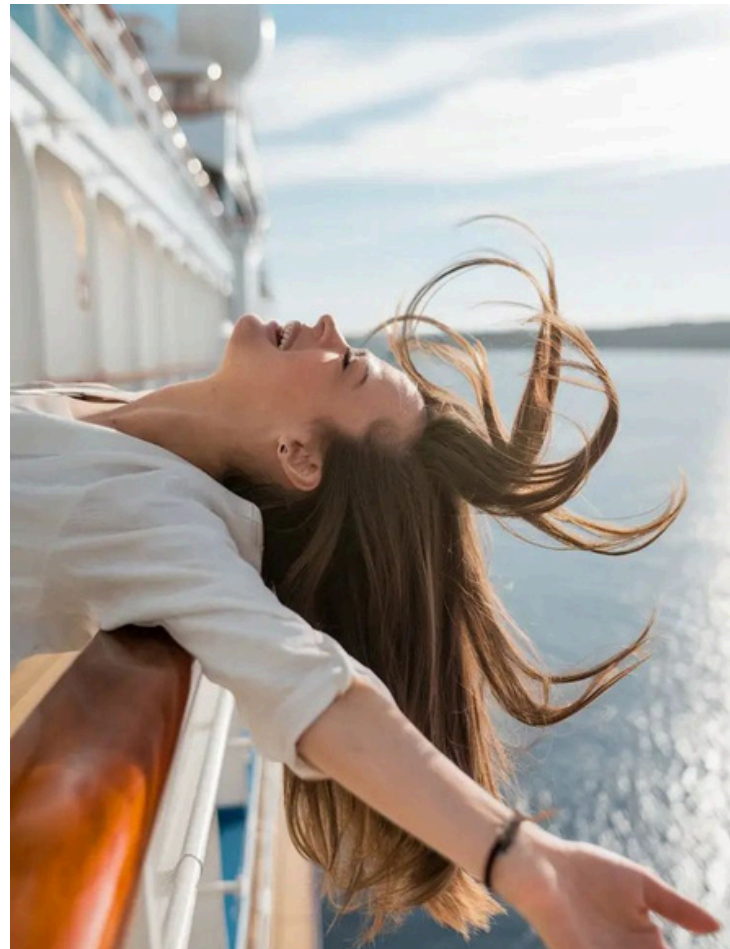

- Do I want to relax or explore?
- Do I want a family trip or an adult-only experience?
- Do I want a party vibe or peace and quiet?

Example:

Sarah, a single mother of two, was looking for a fun-filled family vacation. She chose a 7-night Caribbean cruise with Royal Caribbean because of the kids' clubs, water slides, and family-friendly excursions. It allowed her to relax while her kids stayed entertained.

On the other hand:

Mike and Jen, a couple celebrating their anniversary, chose a Celebrity Cruise to the Greek Isles. It offered a more refined, quieter atmosphere with fine dining, wine tastings, and stunning romantic stops like Santorini and Mykonos.

2. PICK THE RIGHT DESTINATION

Cruises go everywhere, from the Caribbean and Mediterranean to Alaska, Asia, and even Antarctica.

Ask yourself:

- Do I want sunshine or cool weather?
- Culture and history or beaches and cocktails?
- Close to home or far away?

Example:

Tom, a retiree with a love for history, opted for a river cruise along the Danube through Central Europe. He got to explore castles, old towns, and enjoy immersive guided tours in Vienna and Budapest.

Meanwhile:

Lena and her group of friends wanted fun in the sun and nightlife, so they picked a 5-night Bahamas cruise with Virgin Voyages - adults only, full of beach parties, yoga, and trendy food.

3. CONSIDER THE CRUISE LINE'S PERSONALITY

Each cruise line has its own vibe.

Royal Caribbean: Action-packed, family-friendly

Carnival: Affordable, fun, party atmosphere

Norwegian (NCL): Flexible dining and entertainment

Celebrity Cruises: Upscale, modern, adult-friendly

Virgin Voyages: Trendy, adults-only, unconventional

Disney Cruise Line: Magical, best for families with kids

Viking: Elegant, cultural, adult-focused

MSC: European flair, family-oriented

Example:

Jasmine wanted to go solo and meet new people, so she chose Virgin Voyages. With its solo cabins, modern nightlife, and group fitness classes, it was perfect for her.

4. CHECK THE ITINERARY AND PORT TIMES

Not all cruises spend equal time in port vs. at sea. Some prioritise the destinations, others the onboard experience.

Example:

Jake and Laura wanted to explore as much of Italy as possible. They chose a Mediterranean cruise with MSC that had long days in Rome, Naples, and Venice.

In contrast:

Emma and Steve booked a repositioning cruise from Miami to Barcelona. With many sea days, ideal for relaxing, reading, and enjoying the ship's spa and entertainment.

5. MATCH YOUR BUDGET AND TRAVEL STYLE

Cruises range from budget-friendly to ultra-luxury. With this in mind, factor in:

- What's included (drinks, Wi-Fi, excursions, etc.)
- Cabin type (inside, oceanview, balcony, suite)
- Extra costs (gratuities, shore trips, specialty dining).

Example

Leo, a first-time cruiser on a tight budget, chose a 4-night Carnival cruise in an inside cabin. It gave him a great intro to cruising minus the big price tag.

Whereas:

Sandra and her partner wanted a once-in-a-lifetime experience. They splurged on a suite aboard Regent Seven Seas - an all-inclusive luxury cruise that covered everything from business-class flights to excursions and champagne - the ultimate in luxury cruising.

6. THINK ABOUT THE SEASON

Some destinations are seasonal. Alaska cruises typically run May–September. The Caribbean is year-round but has a hurricane season. Europe is best spring through fall. Similarly, some cruise lines run seasonal themed cruises for things such as Halloween, and Christmas.

Example:

Alex and Priya wanted to avoid the crowds and save money, so they booked a Mediterranean cruise in early May. The weather was great, and prices were lower than during the peak summer season.

FINAL THOUGHTS

There's no such thing as a "one-size-fits-all" cruise. Ultimately, the best one is the one that fits your travel style, budget, and dreams.

Whether you're sailing for sun, scenery, or stories to tell, there's a cruise that's just right for you.

Our top tips to GET THE BEST FROM YOUR CRUISE

WHY BOOK YOUR CRUISE EARLY

Generally, the sooner you book the better deals you get. Try to book your cruise 6-12 months out. Prices generally don't decrease over time but if you are lucky to see that, then you may be able to get a price adjustment. However, this is not guaranteed.

Booking early, like most activities/holidays etc ensures both a lower price and better cabins. Popular categories fill up quickly as families or couples would want the bigger cabins or balcony suites. Prime locations are from mid-ship to the upper decks.

However, if you are prone to seasickness, avoid the forward and aft locations (the very back or front of the ship).

WHICH CABIN IS RIGHT FOR YOU?

Cruise ships have a variety of accommodations. Ensure that you understand the size and inclusions of stateroom categories. This will help you to determine the best setup for your family or yourself. Also, how long will you be in the cabin? A place to just sleep, shower and get out to experience? You could be saving that little extra to use at your destinations or activities/photos for the memories.

In addition to the inside, balcony rooms, and ocean view, other classes of staterooms may have extra privileges. They tend to vary by cruise line.

When you are looking at the sites you will generally note that 'Guaranteed Cabins' come up at a better price. These guaranteed cabins, you will be booked in for a cabin in your category. You will not receive a cabin number or location until you receive your final boarding documents. Even though you don't choose your exact room, the benefits are that it will be the cheapest price for your category.

Our top tips to GET THE BEST FROM YOUR CRUISE

DON'T MISS THE SHIP

Don't arrive the morning of your cruise or close to departure time. Planes can be delayed for various reasons, and the ship will leave without you. Always plan to arrive the day prior to departure to make sure that you can board the ship on time. As a travel agent this can be done for you.

The same applies on leaving to fly home. Don't book an early flight home when you return. Settle the account prior to exiting the ship and do a self-checkout if you can manage your luggage. You don't want to book a flight that is too early to go home. In fact, it is recommended that you stay an extra day. And what a great way to look around your destination and relax before packing again for your flight home?

Ship departures can be impacted by technical difficulties, weather, clearance from port customs, and other factors.

DON'T FORGET

- Consider your destination when packing and prepare for the weather
- Pack appropriate outfits for excursions, including footwear
- Download the cruise line app to view activities and create reservations
- Depending on your destination, check your passport expiry dates, visas etc
- Complete your online check-in three days prior to departure
- Your travel documentation and passport – safes are in every cabin for safe keeping
- Pack essential items, such as medication, in a carry-on for easy accessibility
- Put your smartphone on airplane mode once onboard to avoid roaming charges
- Be sure you attend Muster Drill (safety exercise) - These are much quicker and take only 3-4 mins of your time.

River cruising is a relaxing, immersive and thoroughly enjoyable form of travel where you can enjoy ever-changing scenery along the banks of waterways such as the Danube, Rhine, Seine, Douro, Volga and Yangtze. Unpack just once on an award-winning, state-of-the-art 190-guest Longship and journey into the very heart of iconic cities and charming towns.

A RIVER CRUISE CAN BE DEFINED AS:

- A form of leisure travel that takes guests along inland waterways.
- Usually there are several port stops over the course of each passage.
- Typical river cruises often last longer than a week.
- Carry anywhere from 100 to 250 guests, depending on the ship size.
- Are popular on many of the world's major rivers, including the Danube, Rhine, Volga and Yangtze

ACCOMMODATIONS:

River cruises are brimming with onboard amenities. Staterooms are most often river-facing, and come equipped with hotel-style beds, private bathrooms, individual climate control, refrigerators, safes and TVs.

Higher stateroom categories may have French balconies, verandas, and separate sleeping and sitting quarters. Rooms range from 150 to 600 square feet.

Guests receive excellent and personalised service from onboard staff. Additionally, ships include restaurants, lounges and bars, as well as free Wi-Fi. Some ships even come equipped with libraries, boutiques, pools and/or sun deck

CUISINE:

Guests are given a choice of dining options, including where and what to eat. Breakfasts can either be enjoyed al fresco or at the morning buffet, while lunches and dinners can be eaten while viewing passing sights or with friends in a common eating area. Open seating is offered, allowing guests to meet new people or enjoy the presence of the same people each day. Cruises offer regional cuisine and use locally sourced ingredients to help with their authenticity. Also common are wine pairings, selected from local tastes to help guests get a closer understanding of a region's culture.

THINGS TO DO:

River cruisers spend more time in the cities, towns and ports along the way. Included shore excursions consist of guided tours that help guests become well-acquainted with the culture, art and history of their destinations. In addition to guided tours, guests can roam freely around local stops or arrange optional shore excursions. There's always ample opportunity to find something to do in every port, whether it's visiting an ancient castle, attending a classical concert or enjoying a famous museum.

WHO YOU'LL BE CRUISING WITH:

While river cruises can be enjoyed by people of all ages, they generally appeal to people more advanced in age, baby boomers. Many river cruise lines allow children aboard their ships, although they may have age restrictions in place and usually there isn't much for kids to do. The makeup of a liner can include people of a wide range of nationalities, but more often than not, guests come from English-speaking countries.

THE BEST TIMES TO GO:

Whether you choose to travel in the on-season or the off-season, you'll be able to gain a deep cultural experience in each of your destinations. In the spring and summer, you may witness local outdoor events and lively activities that only occur during the warmer months of the year.

Cooler weather in the fall may mean you'll run into fewer people in the streets of cities and ports you visit, which will allow you to take your time and get a closer look at sites that interest you without feeling rushed or crowded. And in the winter season, you'll be delighted by festive Christmas markets and enchanted by the holiday traditions and celebrations of the locals.

WHAT SHOULD YOU PACK:

Given that weather will be variable depending on where your river cruise takes you, bringing along both warm and light clothes is wise. Even during warm months, there is wind on the rivers, so it's best to plan for layers even if the weather is hot.

Additionally, you'll likely be doing a lot of walking, so bring along comfortable shoes. Lastly, pack some dressier clothes in case you attend a formal event while visiting one of your cruise destinations.

HOW THEY DIFFER FROM OCEAN CRUISES:

Although river cruises and ocean cruises share a number of similarities, there are also various - and considerable - differences between the two.

For one, ocean liners are bigger and offer more stateroom accommodations on average. Appropriately, they're able to host significantly more guests. The smaller scale of river ships means fewer guests, but more opportunities to get to know fellow travellers, which often lead to lifelong friendships.

In contrast to ocean cruises that may include multiple sea days, you will rarely experience a full day of sailing on a river cruise. Typically, guests will awake each morning to find themselves in a new port. With river cruising, you can also enjoy an ever-changing mural of breathtaking scenery from your ship, so the journey itself becomes part of your discovery.

For those without sea legs, river cruises have the advantage of smooth trekking, shallow waters and the gift of land that's always in sight. Lastly, most river cruises offer inclusive value, meaning your Wi-Fi, water, alcohol and included excursions are covered in the price. However, ocean cruises tend to offer more upscale amenities, like fitness centres, multiple dining options and a variety of live entertainment.

WHO WOULD ENJOY A RIVER CRUISE:

River cruises are great for everyone, especially those desiring a more relaxed and intimate form of travel. Individuals who've never stepped foot on a ship before will enjoy the relative ease of a river-bound trip with little chance of seasickness.

Furthermore, with a focus on cultural exploration of locations, river cruises are perfect for those with a curiosity about art and history, or a general interest in travel.

Every river is unique and each tells a different story - not only of the countries through which it flows, but also of its locks, canals, scenery and bridges. Ready to set sail?

Disney Cruise Line is about to sprinkle a fresh dose of pixie dust on the seas - and this time, it's setting sail straight into history.

Launching in December 2025, the Disney Adventure is not only the line's newest vessel, but also its first-ever ship dedicated to sailing year-round from Asia, with Singapore set to be its magical homeport.

A MAJOR MILESTONE

The Disney Adventure marks a major milestone: the first Disney cruise ship purpose-built for the Asian market. This 208,000-gross-ton vessel will be one of the largest cruise ships in the world, capable of carrying over 6,000 guests, yet designed to deliver the personalised storytelling Disney is famous for.

The ship is the centre piece of Disney Cruise Line's strategic expansion into Southeast Asia, made possible through a landmark collaboration with the Singapore Tourism Board.

A MAJOR MILESTONE

True to Disney form, themed zones on board the Adventure are nothing short of breathtaking:

Marvel Universe Zone: Step into a high-tech, Avengers-inspired experience, complete with shows, attractions, and photo ops with your favourite superheroes.

Frozen Kingdom: A snow-dusted wonderland where kids and adults can interact with Elsa, Anna, and Olaf - with music, storytelling, and immersive design that makes you forget you're on a ship.

Toy Story Playland: Expect oversized toys, interactive games, and whimsical water play areas inspired by Andy's backyard.

Star Wars Galaxy Lounge: Journey into hyperspace for themed cocktails, galactic games, and encounters with the Rebellion or Empire - depending on which side you choose to form an alliance with.

The ship will also feature Broadway-style live shows, character parades, themed deck parties, and a state-of-the-art cinematic theatre premiering Disney, Pixar, and Marvel releases.

BELOVED STORYTELLING

Disney Adventure is being carefully crafted to blend beloved Disney storytelling with Asian influences and regional hospitality.

Expect:

- Multilingual crew and signage
- Cuisine options tailored to Southeast Asian and global tastes
- Interactive activities for multiple generations
- Special seasonal celebrations for Lunar New Year, Diwali, and more

For families, there's the award-winning Oceaneer Club, Edge, and Vibe programs catering to children and teens.

Meanwhile, adults can enjoy signature Disney Cruise Line adult-only escapes - think upscale dining, nightclubs, and serene spa sanctuaries.

POWERED BY INNOVATION

Behind the scenes, Disney Adventure is making big strides in sustainability. It's powered by green liquefied natural gas (LNG) and incorporates energy-efficient technologies to reduce environmental impact. This supports Disney's broader goal of achieving net zero greenhouse gas emissions by 2030.

WHERE WILL IT SAIL?

The ship will offer a variety of short-to-mid-length itineraries around Southeast Asia - including stops in Thailand, Malaysia, and Indonesia - making it perfect for first-time cruisers and Disney superfans alike

Fact or FICTION?

CRUISES ARE BORING

FICTION!

Most ocean cruise holidays you are usually never more than a day or two from a port... with today's activities both for adults and children there is so much to do! From swimming, spa's, basketball, movies and even rollercoasters on some liners there will never be a boring day.

CRUISES ARE FOR OLD PEOPLE?

FICTION!

Gone are the days where it was seen as cruises were for the 'newly wed' or 'nearly dead'. There are many cruise liners like Royal Caribbean, Carnival and Norwegian that cater for all ages as well as Adult only cruise liners like Virgin Voyages. From Luxury to pretty much all over the world cruises, there are so many to choose from.

CRUISES ARE EXPENSIVE

FICTION!

As cruises are so much more popular today as they were 'back in the day', the cruises are no longer for the 'well to do' anymore. Prices vary depending on where you are sailing to, how long for and cabin class, but still so much more affordable today than they were. Remember, they are all inclusive and sometimes a lot cheaper than a land holiday! *Note that gratuities, drinks packages and excursions are extra though dependant on the liner, ocean or river cruise you are looking at.

CRUISES ARE ALWAYS FORMAL

FICTION!

This is no longer required on most liners these days and is optional (But, in all honesty, we love dressing up once in a while!) Some liners will not allow shorts to dinner but then there are some that don't mind at all. Checking with your specific liner is advisable.

Journey to THE LAST CONTINENT

WHY AN ANTARTICA CRUISE IS THE ULTIMATE BUCKET LIST ADVENTURE

Cruising to the White Continent isn't just a trip - it's a life-defining experience. And with modern expedition vessels blending adventure and comfort, visiting the most remote continent on Earth is now more accessible, safer, and more spectacular than ever.

WHAT IS AN ANTARCTICA CRUISE?

Unlike traditional ocean cruises, an Antarctica cruise is an expedition-style journey, typically departing from Ushuaia, Argentina - the southernmost city on the planet. After crossing the infamous Drake Passage, travellers reach the Antarctic Peninsula, where zodiac landings, ice walks, and wildlife encounters await.

These cruises are small-ships, with guest capacities ranging from 100 to 250, offering a more intimate, educational, and environmentally conscious experience.

WHAT YOU'LL SEE:

Nature at Its Most Raw and Majestic - Antarctica is home to some of the most surreal landscapes and rare wildlife on Earth:

- Penguin colonies with thousands of Adélie, gentoo, and chinstrap penguins nesting on rocky shores
- Whales, including orcas, humpbacks, and minke, swimming close to the hull
- Seals lounging on ice floes, unbothered by human presence
- Icebergs the size of skyscrapers, glowing blue from within
- 24-hour daylight in summer, creating a dreamlike atmosphere

Each day you can enjoy activities such as zodiac landings to step foot on the continent, visiting research stations, and hiking through untouched wilderness - all led by polar experts and naturalists.

Once-in-a-lifetime ARCTIC ADVENTURE

Each year 30,000 people visit Antarctica, and out of those 30,000 people, only two thirds actually land on the continent. Further more, of the 20,000 people that actually step foot on Antarctica - there are a handful of crazy people that are foolish (or as we consider it, blessed) enough to camp at the bottom of the world.

We are two of those people.

Being able to say that not only have you slept on Antarctica under the stars, but you've done it with nothing but you, your sleeping bag, tent and a large sack is one hell of a camping experience.

It had already been a day to end all days. We had survived the Polar Plunge, paddled through brash ice and mesmerising scenery, landed on the shore to visit a penguin colony, seen orca's and ended the afternoon with a zodiac cruise to the stunning glaciers.

It had the makings of a perfect day and now we were topping it off with the ultimate adventure.

We weren't the only crazy people in Antarctica however and together, we took up the challenge of making it through the night in sub zero weather while sleeping in the snow on the shores of Paradise Bay.

To have been able to do something that very few people in this world have opportunity to do was sensational. We feel incredibly grateful to be one of the very few lucky people to be invited to sleep on the frozen continent with the team from HX expeditions .

Continental LANDING

No matter how ready you think you are, nothing really prepares you for the sensation of setting foot in Antarctica for the first time. The crunch of the snow is a kind of magic, putting you under an icy spell you won't want to escape from.

Up until now all of our landings had been on islands around the Antarctic peninsula.

ANTARCTIC EXPERIENCE

And although we had seen plenty of ice, penguins, whales and seals, we could have easily called everything so far an "Antarctic experience,"

But of course, we wanted that true continental landing - to set foot on the peninsula itself, and not just step foot on the peninsula, but to do so after our first night camping.

The "purists" among us (myself included) would not have had it any other way, so here we are, our continental landing - and our official 7th out of 7 continent!

Due to the highly glaciated terrain of Antarctica, there are only a small handful of locations where you can actually make a continental landing and, as with all things in Antarctica, visiting these is subject to weather and ice conditions.

EPIC FROZEN EXPANSES

Antarctica is more than just a place - it's a dream for generations of travellers who have had their imaginations fired by its epic frozen expanses.

This is truly an ultimate bucket list destination - would you step foot on the fabled 7th Continent?

Exploring the world by sea

UNDERSTANDING LONG CRUISE OPTIONS

Do you dream of seeing the world we live in? Sampling delicious foods and drinks native to the countries around the planet? Immersing yourself in different cultures and dipping in different oceans and seas and stunning beaches? Passing time zones, date lines?

Cruising the world doesn't have to mean months away at sea - unless you want it to. With a wide range of itineraries and durations available, there's a cruise option for every kind of traveller, from first-timers to seasoned voyagers.

EXCURSIONS AND WHAT TO EXPECT

Most cruises, whether short or long, offer a variety of enriching shore excursions. These often include cultural experiences like city tours or local performances, culinary adventures such as market visits and cooking classes, and active options like nature hikes or wildlife safaris.

Knowing your itinerary in advance is key to planning your packing list, especially if you're visiting multiple climates.

CRUISE TYPES AND DURATIONS

If your lifestyle doesn't allow for an extended time at sea, don't worry. You can still get a taste of the cruising life with shorter segments or more flexible options:

- Cruise Segment: These are shorter sections of a larger itinerary, lasting anywhere from two weeks to a few months. Segments are ideal for those who want to try out long-haul cruising without committing to the entire journey.
- Grand Voyage: A step up in duration, grand voyages typically span 70 days or more. Though often marketed similarly to world cruises, they may not include the full scope of destinations or benefits that come with a true world cruise.

Exploring the world by sea

UNDERSTANDING LONG CRUISE OPTIONS

- World Cruise: A full world cruise can last between 120 to 180 days - or even longer. These are intercontinental journeys with extensive itineraries, often packed with exclusive excursions, premium amenities, and immersive experiences across the globe.
- Boomerang Cruise: For a unique twist, some travellers opt for a “boomerang” journey. This involves sailing part of the route on one ship and completing the second half on another. It’s a great way to keep the experience fresh, especially for those who enjoy variety in their travel arrangements.

TIMING YOUR CRUISE

World cruises traditionally depart in January, which isn’t always convenient for every traveller. In response, many cruise lines now offer alternate departure dates throughout the year. Booking during the off-season also increases your chances of securing a better deal or added perks.

IS A WORLD CRUISE FOR YOU?

Going through the panama canal, seeing and experiencing things you can only dream of before. Making life long friends and relaxing or adventuring on your own itinerary. Sailing into the most beautiful ports in the world with all the time for your world.

Then probably a world cruise is one for you and the best ways to experience the adventure of exploring on a global scale.

BENEFITS OF A WORLD CRUISE

A world cruise provides an experience of a lifetime. Just for you here are some of the top benefits passengers experience when they decide to book a world cruise.

Exploring the world by sea UNDERSTANDING LONG CRUISE OPTIONS

OPPORTUNITIES TO EXPLORE

An extended cruise offers more opportunities to sightsee and explore. This means extra locations will be on the itinerary, so you have perfect options for adventure and relaxation.

You'll also be able to disembark for longer, more in-depth shore excursions. Because you're already spending so many days at sea, there's no real rush to move on to the next port. You'll be able to take your time and truly enjoy your extra special cruise.

AN INTIMATE EXPERIENCE

Most people on world cruises are in it for the long haul, so you'll likely see them around the ship a lot.

These extended journeys provide opportunities to really get to know your fellow passengers. It's common for world cruise enthusiasts to meet lifelong friends whilst at sea.

You'll also be spending more time at sea than land, so the crew will be able to learn your preferences which is extra special. In fact, that's one of the main benefits of taking smaller cruises. When the same crew members can interact with you each day, providing a highly personalised service you will not forget.

MAKING MEMORIES

Any cruise offers the chance to create lasting memories with a loved one and friends - both old and new. Exploring the world on a cruise expands the experience into something truly spectacular

Exploring the world by sea UNDERSTANDING LONG CRUISE OPTIONS

No matter whether you've been around the world before or it's your first one, a world cruise takes you to breathtaking sights, iconic locations and destinations you might've only dreamed of before. While you won't want your trip to end, you'll look forward to sharing your travel stories with loved ones when you return.

If you decide to make the full circumnavigation, you'll be having a lot of time with the same people. Being an optimistic and friendly person can help make it easier to get along with everyone on board, let's be honest not everyone may be your cup of tea but the ships are big enough to find your people and be courteous of other cruisers, we're all there for great time.

YOU ENJOY SEA DAYS

It takes time to get from one port to the next. You'll be spending many consecutive days at sea before being able to return to land, so a love of sailing is always advantageous. The flying fish, whales, dolphins and the beauty of the day and night especially seeing the moon on the water at night will make it magical and the entertainment and pools on the ship or even the Spa?

YOU'RE A SELF-STARTER

While relaxation and adventure are key features of a world cruise, you'll also be in charge of your own schedule most days. If you're good at keeping yourself busy or you just love to lay back and relax you'll enjoy the laid-back nature of a world cruise. If any of the above sounds like you, you should start looking into your world cruise options.

HOW LONG WILL YOUR CRUISE LAST?

It's important to consider how much time you have available when you're deciding on a ship to book. Keep in mind that you'll have to add time if you plan to fly to a port. If you're new to long cruises or you're pressed for time, you might want to book a segment of a world cruise. This option allows you to get a taste of the world cruising experience for only a part of the voyage. Once you've returned home, you can decide whether you'd like to take the full trip next time.

WHAT SIZE IS RIGHT FOR YOU?

Small, boutique cruise ships carry only a few hundred passengers, creating a more intimate and relaxing experience. Their small size allows them to pull in close to port cities, so you'll have more time to explore the shore. Because there are fewer people on board, you'll build a deep sense of camaraderie with your fellow passengers as well as the crew, gaining more personalised service.

Midsize ships provide a similar elegant experience to small cruises. These ships present a middle ground between small ships and large ocean liners.

Large cruises can hold hundreds or thousands of passengers. Although they provide many diverse amenities, they're too large to dock near port cities. If you take a large ship, independent sightseeing can get difficult - and costly.

Mega liners the largest cruise ship, can accommodate thousands of passengers per voyage. These massive ships offer more amenities, such as on-ship casinos and fitness centres. But, due to their size, mega cruises can feel overwhelming for those looking for a relaxing getaway.

Check duration of port stays: How long will you stay in each port city? You'll gain an idea of how long you have in each destination to prioritise what you want to shop for, see or do. Look at excursions: Get an idea of what excursions you can sign up for early so you can ensure your spot.
